Sylw Llawn / Full Representation:

The Theatres Trust supports this policy. It now provides a clear statement for the protection and enhancement of your existing essential community and cultural facilities, and along with policy ISA1, encouragement to provide new and additional facilities.

Cultural facilities are an essential element in a sustainable community. Culture and the arts can affect social well-being in many ways. Participation in cultural events can contribute to social cohesion and contribute to skills development and lifelong learning, helping to sustain vibrant communities and grow the economy.

Support of culture is increasingly seen as an investment in an area's quality of life. There is a growing awareness of the role that the arts and culture play in developing and attracting an educated workforce and residents to an area.

			between developers and host communities and where such benefits are negotiated directly with the host communities. Horizon is cognisant that ongoing discussions are underway with IACC regarding the wider scheme of "Project Benefits", being inherent benefits, planning benefits, government led community benefits and developer led community benefits. At this stage the JLDP representation has been based on standardised terminology for benefits expected to be delivered under the planning regime however Horizon notes this is not intended to cut across the wider discussions. Horizon continues to agree with IACCs comments that there needs to be common understanding and agreement (between it, IACC and the local community) of the different types of community benefits that could be derived through the Wylfa Newydd Project.
